Curriculum Review Workshop

XIME conducted a curriculum review workshop on September 3, 2011. This was an initiative by the XIME community as a part of their continuous improvement policy.

360° Input

Acclaimed professionals from the industry, experienced faculty from other management institutes including IIM-Bangalore, the alumnus of the college, the faculty members and the current students of the college participated in the workshop to revamp the curriculum.

Matching Industry Expectations

Emphasis was laid on removing overlap of course content and updating the curriculum to match changing industry expectations. The 72 members were separated in to teams representing six streams to review the respective curriculum. It was an intensive session that lasted for about four hours, during which the participants of each team deliberated over various suggestions. The professionals from the industry put forth the current expectations of the industry, while the alumnus shared the relevance of the learnings with respect to their work. The Faculty members from XIME and other institutes, and the students discussed their views, challenges and expectations from the courses offered in the institute.

Plenary Session

The reviews and recommendations of each team were presented to the audience including Prof. G R Kulkarni, Chairman of the workshop and the other team members. Feasibility of recommendations was deliberated during the question and answer session. One of the main decisions was to reduce the number of credits from 130 to 114. After a review by the academic council of XIME it was decided that these changes be incorporated from Batch 18.
